Letter From The Chair

Hello hikers!

Well, it has certainly been a weird season. Fall is officially here; let's keep our fingers crossed that we can keep having some good weather for a while. There are some exciting things happening that you should be aware of.

First, the banquet is coming up on Sunday January 21, 2024 which will be here before we know it. We will be sending our a flier to you soon and an announcement in the Lookout. It will be at The Reef restaurant in Long Beach again, which received excellent reviews from our members. Our speaker will be Jack Thompson from the Wildlands Conservancy, who will tell us about this groups amazing work.

Second, we have begun work on a new web site. It will have all the information found on the existing site with a modern attractive appearance and some exciting new features you'll have to wait to see. Expect this in about six months. We will need help with this from members who are willing to put in a little time writing some content for the site; no technical knowledge is required. If you wish to help please contact me at jhagar1@gmail.com.

We are also going to be offering some really attractive merchandise with our new logo that you will be able to order online. More on this as it develops.

Elections of officers is coming at the end of the year, and candidate statements will be in the November edition of the Lookout.

Keep getting out there everyone!

Starting at the Thorn Point Trailhead trail, the path winds its way through a picturesque forest of towering trees, filling the air with the soothing sounds of nature. The totals for the day will be around 9 miles roundtrip and about 3,714' of elevation gain. Bring water, lunch, lug soles, layers, sunscreen and hat. This back country outing requires the completed paper Local Outings Medical Form to be reviewed by the Leader at the trailhead prior to the hike. Climb 1, 2 or all 3 peaks, as we drive between trailheads for each peak, all pathfinder hikes. We'll start west of Big Bear Lake, approaching Crafts from Green Valley Lake. Sat – Sun Sep 16 – 17 Hundred Peaks, WTC

I: Sugarloaf Peak (6,924) via Cedar Glen CG - Definitely not the most efficient way to scale this peak, but it is an enjoyable way to do it if you're looking to spend a night within a gorgeous stand of Incense Cedar in the Cucamonga Wilderness near Mt Baldy, CA before heading back home. Saturday: pack in 2.5 miles with 1,350' gain, set up camp; then 2.9 miles with -1,050' loss, 1,700' gain to the peak, followed by 2.9 miles with -1,700' loss and 1,050' gain back to camp. Sunday: pack up and out. Although the pack in to our camp is relatively easy, the hike up to the peak is very strenuous and is only appropriate for experienced hikers who are at ease on loose and shifting, bouldery terrain. Climbing helmets are required while we're in Falling Rock Cyn. Priority given to current WTC students needing an Experience trip. This WTC Outing is co-sponsored by HPS. To sign up for this trip, email Mat Kelliher mkelliher746@gmail.com and jnetka@gmail.com with contact and carpool info, recent conditioning & experience, and WTC Area & Group.

Leaders: MAT KELLIHER, BILL SIMPSON, JEREMY NETKA

Sat Sep 16 Hundred Peaks

O: Josephine Peak (5558') - Come join us for a pleasant outing to a mile high peak in the front range of the San Gabriel Mountains. No peak in the Angeles National Forest west of Josephine is taller. There was a fire lookout located at the summit from 1937 until it burned down in 1976. Josephine Peak is a simple out and back trek using the remote and scenic Colby Canyon trail and finishing with a short bit of fire road. The views from the summit offer great sight-lines into the interior of the San Gabriel Mountains, the L.A. basin, south to Catalina Island, and to the east, nearby Strawberry, Lawlor, and beyond. Total trip distance is about 8 miles with an elevation gain of around 1900'. Bring 2-3 liters of water, sun hat, sun block, food, snacks, layers of clothing and hiking shoes. This moderate paced WTC hike is cosponsored by HPS. Classified a Sierra Club backcountry outing, it requires a completed medical form hard copy be presented to leader at trailhead prior to hike. To sign up, email Leader: MARICEL PEREZ-LOVISOLO (weena1994@outlook.com). Co-Leader: MIKE DILLENBACK

Hiker's Honeymoon

By George White

After over seventeen years together on the trails, Lilly Fukui and Chris Spisak were recently married in a church ceremony. They spent a brief (Part 1) honeymoon in Lone Pine, hoping to escape the heat. Well, it was hot there too! No relief. The Dow Villa motel was home for the trip.

A run up to Whitney Portal 8374' proved to provide cooling as there was a lot of water vapor in the air. The waterfall(s) are roaring with multiple streams and overflow providing Vernal falls. The hiker's parking was full and there was a lot of activity around the store. The drive up was complicated by Whitney Portal Road being totally blocked near town for repair. A U-shaped detour goes to the west, then back east to rejoin Whitney Portal Road. A tour of the Alabama Hills is included in the detour with dips and curves.

The next day included a 25 mile drive up to check out Kennedy Meadows Campground (approx. 6200'). The road varies in condition but i s easily drivable. The KM Road starts at US Route 395 near Pearsonville in Inyo County and winds up into an alpine community in a mountain valley. Sherman Pass Road continues to the northwest. The Pacific Crest Trail traverses the road several times and continues th rough the campground. The South Fork of the Kern River cuts through the campground heading eventually to Lake Isabella. The campg round had very few occupants and is currently available first come. It would be a great place to get away and hike the area. The conifers in the area are full and healthy. A bit of Eden.

Nearby Horseshoe Meadows is also an alpine valley and is the trail heads for Mount Langley and Cottonwood Pass. A very scenic paved road climbs 6000' and provides access to this incredible location. Not accessed this trip, but one for a future time.

Meet with other hike leaders at o'dark hundred to set up a car shuttle at Bearpaw Reserve.

Meet the group at o'dark thirty at the Big Falls Trailhead parking lot. Start hiking in the predawn twilight.

Pick our way up a rock choked gully. Recognize we're in the wrong gully and backtrack to the correct one.

Transition to a steep minor ridge and redefine your definition of "steep."

Give thanks for use trails while trying not to kick rocks onto your fellow hikers.

Attain the first major ridge and after some gnarly side hilling, experience the Zen realization that relief is an illusion.

Keep climbing and appreciate when the terrain becomes a typical ridge-line use trail.

Finally reach Little San Gorgonio and remember why we do this.

Enjoy the beautiful first day of autumn as we amble along the main ridge.

Admire the views to our left despite the damage from the 2020 Apple Fire.

Don't allow the unwelcoming radio station employee on the bump east of Wilshire Mountain to harsh our mellow.

Continue to the flattish summit of Wilshire Mountain through the last stretch of mostly unburned forest along the main ridge.

Enjoy the gneiss rocks then continue on to the other Wilshire.

Notice that mellow ridge hike remains mellow but we encounter burn scars from the 2020 El Dorado Fire. Take a longer break on the summit of Wilshire Peak, possibly in anticipation of the knee-busting descent to come.

Descend into the El Dorado Fire burn zone.

Prepare for the last two peaks of the day to be more difficult and in less attractive terrain.

Learn to see the stark beauty in burned trunks surrounded by late summer wildflowers and recovering shrubs.

Note that there are no cedar trees on Cedar Mountain.

Temper our happiness at only having one peak to go with another knee-busting descent and steep ridge climb. Take a longer break on this summit to fuel up for the exit push. Yucaipa Ridge, Step by Step By Sharon Moore Page 2

Note that there are no birch trees on Birch Mountain.

Begin our descent during the golden hours for photography.

Aim to to reach the road sections before it gets fully dark, since "golden hours" means the daylight is waning. Proceed with the sun in our eyes and without a lot of time for photography. Take the shots anyway and give thanks when we do reach the road before dark.

With headlamps and the light from a half moon, expect an increasingly obstacle-free if long road hike to the cars. After climbing through several down trees and missing a switchback in the road, remember that the hike isn't over until it's over.

When it truly is over, stuff our weary selves into the cars at Bearpaw Reserve and return to the starting point at the Big Falls parking lot.

Milestones

Fri Sep 1 was the first day of this 10-day Safari that Tanya and I took to Kenya, East Africa. The trip's being put on by Sierra Club International, is led by my buddy Sridhar Hello and Jessica Gamburg, and there's a total of 18 of us on the trip including Winnette Butler.

Sheephead, Garnet and Monument

By Monica Meier

Sheepshead Mountain is off of HWY SI (Sunrise Hwy) is rated class one with the summit boulder formation going at class two, total distance 3.5 miles. We had to climbed over a padlocked gate, hiked cross country distance skirting around the fence of the private property. We went along the matured Pine forest on the left side. The erode dirt road took us down the wash and follow the ducked use trail, soon we saw the clipped use trail, at the beginning, but then once we head up towards the summit the trail was GNARLY bushwhacking. It was like I was being punished, beaten, smack in the face with branches and thorns poking my legs.

We made to the summit with blood, sweat and tears. The views from the summit were Spectacular of the near-by mountains. Hannah and Nahid were brave, they went to the very top for the sign. We all took turned taking pictures with smiles on our faces, I was leaning against the two boulders making sure I was not going to fall between the boulders, Peter and Steve R. Guided everyone down from the boulders safely.

We got back to the car and had a very quick snack and then head off to our next hike.

We had lunch before going to Monument Mountain. We enjoyed having lunch under the shade, Nahid shared her blanket with all of us, it was super nice. John decided to stay and wait for us at the car, Monument Mountain over looking Ana Borrego desert just BEAUTIFUL. We were pointed out by others of Villager Peak, Rabbit, Whale and more of. Garnet Peak and Mountain

One of the most scenic and popular spots in the Lagunas Mountain stands high above the Ana Borrego Desert floor on the edge of the cliff literally.

We all said good bye and thank Peter, Ignacia, and Jinoak for putting together a great hike.

It was my very first time at Cleveland National Forest. Nahid dropped us off at carpooling area, two of us went to get tacos and head home, I got home at 9:35pm, Stephen had to drive two more Counties. It was and epic day.

Crafts Peak, Delamar Mountain, Little Bear Peak, 9/13/2023.

By Steve Russell

I needed conditioning a fr a summer of limited hiking. This hike looked like something I could handle. I have always enjoyed trips led the Peter and Ignacia Dogget. As a bonus Jinoak Chung was also leading.

After a couple of late cancellations, I turned out to be the only non-leader on the trip. That's not unusual for a Wednesday hike. We all packed into Peter and Ignacia's Land Cruiser, leaving my car and Jinoaks truck at the Walmart in Highland.

This trip was put together to specifically address some pathfinder routes that Jinoak wanted to climb. The main hike of the day was up Crafts Peak. It turns out that the route most folks take up Crafts is not the standard route for the HPS. There is a shorter route that goes straight up from the highway. That made this a repeat of a hike I did a couple of summers ago. This was okay since it would provide me with a much needed workout.

The route up Crafts starts from the Green Valley Campground. The legal parking area is at the entrance sign and only has enough room for three cars, four if everyone cooperates, and parks close together. This hike is a popular morning stroll for the locals, so you must either get there early, or get there late to find parking. The lot was full when we arrived.

Peter drove into the campground and parked on the side of the road just before the locked gate, making sure there was enough room for emergency vehicles to pass.

The hike is straight forward, following a dirt road above Crab Creek until finally crossing the gully and traversing around a spur ridge to the top of an intermediary peak. We then dropped into a saddle where we followed a short gully to the ridge top. The final summit push leaves the main trail and follows the ridge up to the 8,364-foot summit. From the top you can see the ridge leading to the Butler Lookout. Though only a short distance away, it is choked with impenetrable brush. You also get nice views of the Snow Valley Ski Resort on Slide peak, and the Keller Peak Lookout.

I came up with 7 miles and 1,538 feet of gain for the hike. Much of the route is shaded by trees so this is a good one to do if you are looking for something cooler. Next it was a dirt road drive north of Big Bear Lake to the starting point of the hike to Delamar. We began where the dirt road and the PCT meet north of the mountain. We took a more direct route down, hiking down a spur that almost dropped us off at our vehicle. The totals for the hike were 1.25 miles and 604 feet of gain.

Our final peak for the day was Little Bear which we hiked up from Hanna Rocks Campground. This is where Peter really shined as he managed to find a beautiful route through the brush. Everytime it looked like we were going to run into a wall of brush, Peter would find an easy way through. Little Bear had a nice view of Big Bear Lake and the San Gorgonio Mountains. The stats for Little Bear were 0.8 miles and 456 feet of gain.

Etiwanda Peak

By Isa Galan

What a day! September 3rd. We started at 00 dark 30 at Icehouse Canyon and started climbing in the dark with just headlamps. It was cold, windy and wet! Is it summer? Or did we go straight back to winter?

Once we reached the Icehouse Saddle the sun started to play through the clouds. And before we knew it, we were above the clouds. Beautiful inversion all the way to Etiwanda Peak. What a day! Long hike, almost 15 miles with close to 5000ft of elevation gain

MCOMM Minutes Tuesday July 11, 2023

Jim Hagger, Chair Sharon Moore, Vice Chair Mark Allen, Secretary George Christensen, Mountain Records Lidia Barbosa, Member at Large Larry Pond, Mountain Records Steve Russell, Membership Mike Dillenback, Programs

- Banquet: Discussed choice of venues for the banquet. There are many barriers to holding events at the Eaton Canyon Nature Center. Decided to hold banquet at The Reef in Long Beach in the Bayview Room which holds up to 60. Cost is $75 per person which includes 2 hour beverage service. Discussed whether attendance would be lower because fewer certificates will be handed out. Projected attendance is around 50. Speaker will be Jack Thompson from the Wildlands Conservancy. Jim will email him to confirm.

- Waterman Rendezvous will be held in the fall if ACH reopens; date to be determined. Will follow up next meeting.

- Decided to hold Holiday Hoopla Dec 1-2 at Joshua Tree Lakes campground. Mike will make reservations.

- Decided to hold 2024 Spring Fling at Keller Ski Hut; Mike will check on availability.

Logo (Jim Hagar): A final round logo and a rectangular logo were chosen. The rectangular logo has a wider version for the web site masthead and versions with and without a black frame. Jim will finish the purchase.

Mountain Records (Larry Pond, George Christensen):

Highway 33 remains closed for the foreseeable future. Road to Big Pine is closed; the duration of the closure is uncertain.

Membership (Steve Russell):

Steve reported on membership and new awards. Ron volunteered to learn the membership system as a backup to Steve.

Web site:

Jim started a list of web site requirements and members will add their ideas about "needs" and "wants".

Rather than use the existing text based pages, design for peak guides will be based on a data layer from a master database which contains peak data route and hiking directions, including adding distance, gain, road conditions etc. which will allow searching on those parameters. Subcommittee will select vendor, further develop requirements, and mock up home and peak guide pages.

Some of the requirements that were discussed:

- searchable data
- mobile friendly
- users can add comments to peak pages
- page or section with road and access conditions
- place for news updates
- peak guides formatted for printing
- Caltopo link opens in new window
- make a new set of Caltopo-based pdf maps in addition to existing Nat Geo maps
- explore better membership renewal and payment methods
- merchandise can be ordered via link; no ecommerce capability required

Members will continue to propose features. Jim Steve and Ron will start collecting data into spreadsheets.

Adjourn 7:24 PM.

MOUNTAIN RECORDS REPORT

 FAIRVIEW FIRE – Rouse Hill Suspension

The FAIRVIEW FIRE in the South Fork of the San Jacinto Wilderness Area (near Hemet), affected the Cahuilla's and Thomas Mountain areas. A Forest Closure Order is in effect (Order 05-12-55-23-02), with Rouse Hill (5168', Peak 29A) inside the closure area. This closure is in effect through December 31, 2023, and therefore Rouse Hill has been suspended.

BOBCAT FIRE / ANGELES NF

The Bobcat Fire Closure, that affects LPC (Zion, Newcomb and Clamshell Peaks), but not HPS Peaks, has been extended through May 31, 2024. The Closure Map is available on the Angeles NF website and affects trails out of Chantry Flat and Mt Wilson.

LOS PADRES NOW OPEN TO BIG PINE AND WEST BIG PINE MOUNTAINS

The Los Padres National Forest Closure Order (now Order No. 05-07-00-23-11), outlines closed areas, roads and trails. The good news is that the previously closed areas that prevented access to all of the "Big Four" are now open.

Hwy 33 remains closed from So. Matilija Springs Road to Lockwood Valley Road, so three HPS Peaks in the area remain suspended (Hildreth Pk, Monte Arido, and Old Man Mtn). The latest from Caltrans is that "SR 33 is expected to be closed at least through Thanksgiving Day Weekend, possibly longer".

GEOLOGY FIRE — JOSHUA TREE

The Geology Fire in mid June is not affecting our hiking area.

BONNY FIRE — CLEVELAND NF

The Bonny Fire (7-31-23) in the area of Iron Spring (31F), and Beauty Peak (31E), does not appear to affect access to those peaks. The Cleveland NF indicates that the fire was on BLM property which is not normally subject to closure orders.

Thanks to Sharon Moore and Rob Langsdorf for bringing the Geology and Bonny Fires to my attention.
