About the peak

Bohna Peak and its sister Sunday Peak are in the Sequoia National Forest and are the northernmost peaks on the HPS list. They are situated at the southwest end of the Sierra Nevada, with summit views that can extend as far as Mt Whitney and the Great Western Divide. Before the Cedar Fire in 2016, their pretty trails wound gradually through a beautiful forest of green ferns and tall pines; sadly, the fire destroyed some of Sunday's forest and much of Bohna's. Nevertheless, the area is regrowing, and the views remain as spectacular as ever.

Route 1 ascends on forested trail to a saddle with a bit of cross-country to reach the summit. Route 2 follows a brushy ridge to the peak. Bohna is often hiked with Sunday, along the steep ridge connecting them.

Alternative routes: Bohna can be climbed from a trail junction near Sunday Peak. The Sunday Peak Route 2 guide describes this route.

Bohna Peak has 2 official HPS routes:

Bohna Peak Route 1

Distance: 3 miles round trip on use trail and cross-country

Difficulty rating: Class 1, easy

Trailhead location on Google Maps

Gain: 1400

Time: 2 hours round trip

Navigation difficulty: Easy

Road type: Dirt

Driving directions:

- From Lake Isabella (city) drive north on SR 155 for 7.0 miles to where it turns left in Wofford Heights. Turn left.
- Drive 7.7 miles farther to Greenhorn Summit. This is the turnoff point for Sunday Peak, Split Mountain and Black Mountain #5. Continue straight on SR 155.
- Drive 5.8 miles farther to a dirt road 24S07 on the right. Turn right.
- Drive 2.0 miles to a jeep road on the right. Park near here.

Hiking directions:

- From the parking area (5480'), follow the jeep road east. It soon becomes a use trail.
- Follow this use trail 1 1/2 miles to saddle 6480'.
- Turn right (south) and ascend cross-country less 1/2 mile to the summit.

Additional Route notes:

Note: Sandy Creek Canyon Road Gate (24S07) off of SR155 is seasonal. Call Greenhorn Ranger District at (760) 379-5646 for road condition and gate closure information. If you are hiking 24S07, the old jeep road is 0.1 mile past a sharp turn west. If you reach McFarland Creek (gully) you have gone 0.2 mile too far.

Bohna Peak Route 2
