About the peak

This peculiarly named bump outside of Wrightwood is typically hiked together with Circle. The HPS Route 1 is a short scramble up the east ridge. It has striking views of Pine and Dawson, and less-commonly appreciated views of Baldy and the Three Ts from their back sides, with Stockton Flats below.

Peak combinations: This peak can be combined with Wright Mountain by car shuttle. Park at the Wright Mountain parking area. After climbing Wright Mountain follow the PCT eastward, then southeast, to a saddle at 6600', 1/4 mile northwest of Gobblers Knob. Climb 350' up an open ridge to the summit of Gobblers Knob. Descend to the cars by Route 1.

One can also hike from Gobblers Knob to Wright Mountain and return by the PCT.

Notes: The peak is named only on the USFS San Bernardino National Forest Map. On the Telegraph Peak 7½ topo, the peak is in the southeast quadrant of the Section 27, marked 6955' and should not be confused with peak 6966' found 0.5 mile to the northwest.

The summit plateau contains a toothpick forest. This is a stand of dead trees that can remain standing for decades.

Gobblers Knob has 1 official HPS route:
