About the peak

Sugarpine Mountain and its neighbors inhabit the range of mountains that begins where the San Gabriels end at Cajon Pass and rise again into Big Bear and Arrowhead. It overlooks lovely Silverwood Lake on one side, and Cajon Pass on the other with Mount Baldy in the distance. It is often hiked combination with nearby Cajon, Sugarpine, Bailey, Monument #2.

Route 1 is a short walk to the peak from the west following a long drive on rough high clearance road. It can also be hiked along its east ridge from the parking area for Bailey Peak. The roads are closed seasonally.

Special conditions: The dirt roads are seasonal.

Natural historical notes: There are few Sugar-pines left in the area. They were logged years ago.

Sugarpine Mountain has 1 official HPS route:
