About the peak

Delamar, likely named for an operator of one of the numerous gold mines in the area, overlooks beautiful Big Bear Lake to the south, serene Holcomb Valley to the north and east, and Fawnskin Valley to the west. Delamar is usually hiked together with nearby Little Bear Peak.

Route 1 is a short hike from the junction of 3N12 and the PCT. One can also hike to Delamar (and Bertha as well) from Big Bear Lake on the Cougar Crest Trail to join the PCT then on to Route 1. This is shown on the map.

Alternate routes: From the same parking area, go left on the PCT about 1/3 mile to where a jeep road goes uphill to the right. Follow the jeep road to the summit.

Special conditions: The dirt roads are seasonal.
